

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A power component assembly for mechatronic integration of power components is disclosed. The assembly includes a circuit board on which a plurality of bare power components is arranged. At least one cooling element is connected to a pressure-mounting frame that holds the power components in thermal contact with the cooling element(s). Heat generated by the power components is thereby dissipated by the cooling element(s).